THE CONTRIBUTORS' COLUMN

ALBERT W. PALMER has had a distinguished career in the pastorate and has been since 1930 president and professor of practical theology in The Chicago Theological Seminary. His most recent book, Come, Let Us Worship, was reviewed in the November, 1941, issue of the Journal. Dr. Palmer's brief article contains the substance of a welcoming address delivered before members of the Mid-western Branch of the N.A.B.I. meeting at the Chicago Theological Seminary January 2 and 3, 1942.

KATHARINE HAZELTINE PATON is a teacher of English and Religion in the Baldwin School, Bryn Mawr, Pennsylvania, and of adult classes under the direction of the Religious Education Committee of the Religious Society of Friends of Philadelphia and Vicinity. Besides this secondary school and adult education experience she has taught in the Biblical Departments of Mount Holyoke, Vassar, Bryn Mawr and Wellesley, and in the Hartford Theological Seminary.

EDGAR SHEFFIELD BRIGHTMAN is the newly elected president of the National Association of Biblical Instructors for 1942. He is Borden Parker Bowne Professor of Philosophy in the Boston University Graduate School. His last book is A Philosophy of Religion, published by Prentice-Hall, 1941. Dr. Brightman has just been elected editor of the Proceedings of the Inter-American Congress of Philosophy, and delivered the Swander Lectures at the Theological Seminary of the Reformed Church in Lancaster, Pennsylvania, January 26-28 and is to deliver the Cole Lectures at Vanderbilt University during the week of April 12.

HARRISON S. ELLIOTT is head of the department of religious education and psychology of Union Theological Seminary. His most recent book, Can Religious Education Be Christian? was reviewed in the May, 1941, issue of the JBR. Dr. Elliott is president of the Religious Education Association.

WALTER M. HORTON is in charge of the department of the Philosophy of Christianity at the Oberlin Graduate School of Theology, and teaches undergraduate courses on Christianity in the Oberlin College department of Religion. He is the author of Theism and the Modern Mood, A Psychological Approach to Theology, Realistic Theology, Contemporary Continental Theology, Can Christianity Save Civilization? and other books.

JAMES MUILENBURG is Professor of Old Testament Literature and Semitic Languages at the Pacific School of Religion. He was president of the National Association of Biblical Instructors in 1933. His special interest in the form and structure of Hebrew literature makes him well qualified to review Dr. Pfeiffer's Introduction to the Old Testament.
